

Dr. James H. Brown

Distinguished Professor Emeritus and Co-Director, Program in Interdisciplinary Biological and Biomedical Science (PIBBS), Department of Biology, has accepted an invitation to serve on the prestigious Editorial Board of the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences for a period of three years. Dr. Brown received his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan and has been with the UNM Biology Department since 1987. He is a gifted teacher and mentor and a prolific writer, authoring several books and publishing in such prestigious journals as Science, Nature, Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, and Ecology, just to mention a few. Dr. Brown's research focuses on community ecology and biogeography, the study of the distribution of species and ecosystems in geographic space and through geological time. To read more about Dr. Brown and his research, click on the Emeriti & Retired Faculty section of the Biology Department's website (<http://biology.unm.edu/>)

February 2014